24 JANUARY - 16 FEBRUARY

The Denim Project – VBCC / Terrie Thompson

Terrie's work with denim began as a community minded upcycling project - sewing whales from 'waste' denim. Alongside the whales, Terrie is creating an ever-growing body of work that combines the beauty and simplicity of the iconic fabric with hand stitching.

The Denim Project explores the connection between what we wear and the impact it has on our oceans. It bridges our understanding of how consumerism affects everything around us including the majestic creatures of the sea.

Further discussion on the environmental impact of clothing will be welcome.

How to join? Visitors will be invited to add their own arty whale to the pod and initiate discussions about denim such as your favourite memories of denim items, what happened to the piece and if you have explored ways to upcycle denim.

Magpie Studio - Amanda Diamond

When Amanda lived full time in Venus Bay she was inspired by nature, particularly birds! She drew them on industrial paper, made sculptures of giant birds for farms and painted many on water tanks. Magpie Studio was the home for various projects and workshops.

Amanda now lives half the year overseas in Morocco, where the colours, patterns and forms have deeply touched her artistic practice. Her new work brings together both elements of her life and nature inspired by our wonderful Australian flora, and the riot of colour that is Africa. Fonduq is her latest project, a quirky guesthouse for creatives in the walled medina of Essaouira, and host to an Artist in Residence program.

Whilst in the Art Cube Amanda will be exploring natural life, highlighting a colourful mix of plants from Australia and fabrics from Africa, using repurposed canvases, vases and paints.

How to join? The Art Cube will be a studio to work in and also for public to join Amanda and paint their own 'Nature Vivant'. A cost will be associated with materials.

Blue Ibis Studio - Kate Stuart

Working with clay, minerals and fire enables Kate to give shape and voice to her experience of our world. Each piece of work is unique and considered; an abstract and visceral response to the seasons and weather patterns, as well as the colours, textures and atmosphere of wild coastal landscape that she inhabits.

Kate's work seeks to tell a story of the human connection with nature in everyday objects of beauty and function. In the process of making ceramic artworks and pottery for everyday use, she is afforded the opportunity to contemplate, and to share with others, both the power and the vulnerability of the natural environment.

You will find Kate in her Cube three to four days a week (will be advertised) making new work, sharing with visitors some of the pottery making processes that she uses, and ways that she works to reduce the use of new materials and waste in her studio practice. There will also be a display of my handmade ceramic tableware, cooking accessories and functional homewares available for purchase.

Join In: Visitors will be invited to make a small object in clay to contribute to a larger temporary artwork on display in the Art Cube precinct.

Claire has always loved the creative satisfaction and sense of belonging that comes with making art and music. She has been singing and drawing all her life.

Claire completed a Bachelor of Fine Arts Honours at the National Art School in Sydney. Where she loved capturing the spontaneity of expressive gesture and colour in lithographs. She also loved capturing a likeness in portraiture, using sensitive mark making on lithographic stones.

Venus Bay, Tarwin Lower and District Men's Shed

The Men's Shed consists of men, mostly retired, from a number of different backgrounds. Working together and sharing skills has seen some of the members develop talents in woodworking and other fields that is at times surprising. Work is usually done using reclaimed timber and other materials to produce unique, one off, craft and artistic works.

On display will be works by shed members, displaying the range of talents and the beauty of hand-crafted timber. Items may be purchased during the exhibition or orders taken to make individually hand-crafted items.

Also included in the exhibition will be part of a collection of Magic Lanterns and slides, some of which date back 140 years.

Watch out for Magic Lantern viewing times.

Join In: Whilst visiting, find out more about the Men's Shed and how you could be involved.
